Frequently Asked Questions about Campus Health

Hi! Welcome to Campus Health and to Counseling & Psychological Services. I'm Ken Pittman, Director of Campus Health, and on behalf of Dr. Allen O'Barr, Director of CAPS and nearly 200 staff members, we are committed to doing our very best to provide you with expert, student focused, inclusive health care so that you can thrive during your time at Carolina. We are one of 17 college health centers to be accredited by the Joint Commission. And last year, we experienced over 82,000 visits, and our two pharmacies dispensed over 62,000 prescriptions. These are numbers we are very proud of because they represent the significant impact we have on students, post-docs, their spouses and partners. I must tell you that I can't believe that I've been in healthcare management for gosh, nearly 25 years. And I've learned a few things during that period of time. And here is something that I say to individuals all the time - that I'll say to you. The care that you receive at Campus Health and CAPS will be among the best healthcare you'll receive during your lifetime. From our access to services, the scope of services we provide, our coordination of care from highly qualified, compassionate providers, and quite frankly, our laser focus on caring for you during a particular stage in your development. Those are all things that it will be difficult for you to find among other healthcare providers in the region. So - please trust us, and choose us, when you have reason for medical or psychological services, and provide us with the privilege of being an integral part of your Carolina experience.

Welcome, Tar Heels and families!

First - the to-do list for new students:

1. Immunizations [1]: Per North Carolina State law, students must provide documentation that they have received all required immunizations to meet matriculation requirements.
2. Health insurance [2]: All eligible students enrolled in the UNC system colleges and universities including UNC-Chapel Hill, are required to have health insurance coverage. This means that all eligible students attending the University must provide proof of a creditable health insurance policy.
